

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A chemical dispensing apparatus for use with an air conditioning or heating system to reduce or eliminate airborne contaminates from the air stream of a conditioned space comprising a chemical supply section including a chemical reservoir and a chemical delivery device to store and supply chemical to the contaminated air stream and a dispensing control section including a microprocessor control to selectively control the dispensing of chemical to the contaminated air stream in response to at least one predetermined parameter.

5